A Boy Died Last Night

A boy died last night. It doesn't make much difference now about his name. The important thing is that he died in poignant and awful loneliness, out somewhere on a waste of sand, out in a starless silence, ten thousand miles from home.

"Missing in Action," read an obscure line in this morning's communique. That was all. Now he lies there, crumpled beside the twisted wreckage of his plane, riding high in the sunlit heavens. The fine head and the shining face and the broad shoulders remain only in a picture that looks out upon a quiet living room on a shaded street an eternity away.

Last night, in those agonizing hours of unspeakable isolation, he went through a thousand deaths without the one thing that might have helped a little—the sound of a familiar voice, the pat of a friendly hand.

The pain was terrible enough. But there was that dreadful burden of thought in those endless last hours. Mom and Pop. The flowers blooming again in the back yard. The good old Roadster in the driveway. That last sweetheart kiss at the station. Those dances last summer. That half-finished letter in his blouse. All those plans for the future. Couldn't somebody find him, please?

Too much for you, all that? But it really happened last night, just like that. If people could only understand it, if they could just grind deep into their thinking the stark, terrible reality of it, every petty, selfish interest would be swept away. They would sacrifice anything just to make themselves worthy of that boy. They would rise up and demand that their government take anything, everything needed, take away every last penny of profit, render uncertain every commonplace comfort, and easy security just to avenge that boy.

He died last night, you see. There's no getting around that.

WILLYS JEEP

A JEEP'S-EYE VIEW OF THE SEABEES IN ACTION

A true incident of JEEPS from 1941-1945 in the battle of the South Pacific.

IN the essential and dangerous work of war, the Navy Seabees—combat teams, landing, working, fighting—were writing heroic history today.

The incident illustrated here is typical of war as the Seabees find it, and as a Seabee whose buddy made the supreme sacrifice, actually saw it—

"We had occupied this little island in the lagoon a few days before. All our equipment—our cranes, power shovels, graders, bulldozers, trucks, a fleet of Jeeps, guns, materials, tools—everything needed to do our job—had been put ashore without opposition.

"In fact, we had the runway of the new air field leveled off, and about a third of the road was laid, before anything happened. It was really beginning to get us—just waiting.

"Then one day hell broke loose. An 'over' brought us to our feet with a jerk. We could hear the roar of low-level Jap bombers. It had been raining and they were coming over the air field right out of the glare of the sun. Bombs began falling and machine guns popping. Then there was a crash and we could see that a direct hit had blasted a big hole right in the middle of our road runway.

"That was bad. It would keep our own fighters from going ashore to intercept the Japs. Larry—that's my buddy—and some more of us, picked him a couple of Jeeps with our repair tools, and ran for the still smoking crater.

"Just as we got there we heard the Japs coming back. We were caught flat-footed—off our heels. He dove into a nearby machine gun pit. Two Japs with their machine guns blazing were headed straight for him. He could have ducked, but he didn't. He just trained his gun on the lower of the Japs and let her go. We could see his bullets tearing a pattern in the Jap's headgear. Then there was a puff of black smoke, a burst of red hot flame, and the Jap crumpled, and crashed in the ocean just at the end of the runway.

"Larry moved our index that day. We made the repair, our planes were able to go up and around the day, and the hole was completely in record time.

"But they got Larry a few days later when they landed a gigantic barge loaded with gasoline, on which he was working. He had what we call 'Seabee gas'!"

The records show that "Larry,"..... Seabee Second Class, in recognition of conspicuous gallantry above and beyond the call of regular duty, was posthumously awarded the Silver Star Medal. He was the first Seabee to receive this citation.

It is a great satisfaction to us that Willys-built Jeeps are considered an essential part of the equipment of the Seabees (Construction Battalion). These courageous men—the newest branch of Navy service—show their skill and experience as surveyors, electricians, carpenters, iron workers, masons, riveters, welders, plumbers, etc., etc., etc. and risk their lives day after day, in field, mountains, and jungle when necessary, air bases, docks, barracks, roads, etc., for our fighting forces—anywhere. Our best bet off to these courageous builders—don't they beat of the brave best."

A message for you...from 1953

(Today, John Jones is just an average American, wrestling with all the doubts and worries and problems that beset every one of us right now. But let's skip ahead 10 years. Let's look at John Jones then—and listen to him . . .)

SSOMETIMES I feel so good it almost scares me.

"This house—I wouldn't swap a shingle off its roof for any other house on earth. This little valley, with the pond down in the hollow at the back, is the spot I like best in all the world.

"And they're mine. I own 'em. Nobody can take 'em away from me.

"I've got a little money coming in, regularly. Not much—but enough. And I tell you, when you can go to bed every night with nothing on your mind except the fun you're going to have tomorrow—that's as near Heaven as a man gets on this earth!

"It wasn't always so.

"Back in '43—that was our second year of war, when we were really getting into it—I needed cash. Taxes were tough, and then Ellen got sick. Like most everybody else, I was buying War Bonds through the Payroll Plan—and I figured on cashing some of them in. But sick as she was, it was Ellen who talked me out of it.

"Don't do it, John!" she said. "Please don't! For the first time in our lives, we're really saving money. It's wonderful to know that every single payday we have more money put aside! John, if we can only keep up this saving, think what it can mean! Maybe someday you won't have to work. Maybe we can own a home. And oh, how good it would feel to know that we need never worry about money when we're old!

"Well, even after she got better, I stayed away from the weekly poker game—quit dropping a little cash at the hot spots now and then—gave up some of the things a man feels he has a right to. We made clothes do—cut out fancy foods. We didn't have as much fun for awhile but we paid our taxes and the doctor and—we didn't touch the War Bonds.

"We didn't touch the War Bonds then, or any other time. And I know this: The world wouldn't be such a swell place today if we had!"

A Proclamation

To the People of the United States of America, Occupied by the German Army

DECREE

To safeguard the property of the United States and to prevent acts against the security of the American people and the German Occupation forces

By virtue of authority vested in me by My Father and All-Mightiest Commander of the Army, I decree:

I. All powers of state in the United States rest in the hands of the Army of Occupation.

II. The occupying forces have taken command of all government offices, the courts, the police, all transport, banks, industrial plants, farms, universities, schools, hospitals and churches. All executives, white collar workers and laborers, insofar as they are retained by the Germans, who disregard German orders will be executed.

III. All products of farms and industry, raw materials, gold and silver, jewels and all objects may be requisitioned by the military authorities, who will decide how they may be used in the public interest. This order includes all industries above the normal requirements.

IV. Anyone caught trying to destroy farms or industrial products, buildings, plants, public utilities, or posters put up by the German authorities will be shot.

V. Anyone attempting sabotage, changing his residence to escape work, or refusing to go wherever he is sent to work will be put to death.

VI. Taxes will be levied by the military. All costs of occupation must be paid by the communities involved, until withdrawal of the occupying forces.

VII. In all of the occupied territory the German reichsmark will be the medium of exchange, at a rate to be determined by the occupation authorities. The Army of Occupation may make payments over one hundred and twenty-five dollars by giving an IOU. Anyone refusing to honor German money or notes will be fined not less than 100,000 marks and imprisoned for not less than five years.

VIII. All political activities must cease as of this date. Political parties, labor unions, religious and charitable organizations are hereby outlawed. Any attempt to evade this section will subject the offender to extreme penalties.

IX. All public meetings of whatever character are forbidden. Violations will be dealt with by military courts.

Believing that few Americans realize just what an Axis victory would mean to our way of life, the Editor asked a man familiar with the type of decrees issued by the German military in conquered territory, to draw up a specimen draft of what we might expect if we were whipped.

Don't laugh. It could happen here.

Every section of this "Decree" is a true copy of a regulation imposed by the Nazis in either Occupied France, Belgium, Norway, Czechoslovakia or Poland. The ponderous official language used in German military edicts has been translated into idiomatic English, without puffing any punches.

X. Theater and moving picture shows, art exhibits, sporting events, social and religious meetings, publication of books, newspapers and magazines are hereby made subject to authorization and censorship by the military.

Books and art objects abandoned to the military authorities must be destroyed by their owners. Violation of this order will be punished with a fine of not less than 100,000 marks and imprisonment for not less than five years.

XI. Anyone trying to leave the United States without permission will be deported to German concentration camps or shot.

XII. Within four days of publication of this proclamation all males between the ages of 16 and 45 must register with the local military commander, giving all significant data as to education and vocational aptitude. Similarly with females between the ages of 16 and 45, within ten days of publication of this Decree. Other residents must comply with these regulations within three weeks. Refusal to comply will result in fine and sentence to a concentration camp.

School children must be registered by their teachers, as a first step to facilitate their transfer to National Socialist youth camps.

XIII. Jews will be dealt with in accordance with regulations in force wherever German authority extends. A future order will deal with methods for deportation of the sape population.

XIV. Weapons of all kinds, broadcasting equipment, short wave radios, cameras, anti-German literature, letters and pictures must be turned in as of this day to the local military authorities. Failure to comply with this order will bring the death penalty.

The death penalty will also be levied against all persons who listen to foreign radio broadcasts, pick up or distribute unauthorized leaflets, or read newspapers and books under the ban of the German military authorities.

XV. All Americans must pay due respect to officers and men in German uniforms and make way for them in all public places. The penalty for violation will be fine, imprisonment or deportation to a concentration camp.

Persons leading the German soldiers or German officials, or Americans under the German protection, or who criticize National Socialism will be liable to deportation, with the death penalty mandatory for repetition of any of these offenses. Anyone threatening physical harm to military or civil authority will be shot.

XVI. Any violation of German authority by groups of two or more persons will subject the entire community to heavy fine, and economic and social leaders of the community will be dealt with drastically. If those committing these outrages are not apprehended a group of citizens of the community, selected at random, will be shot, the number depending on the gravity of the crime.

XVII. Disrespect for any flag displayed with the permission of the Occupation Authorities is absolutely forbidden. Flags not in conformity with the German cause must be turned in to the authorities at once, or destroyed. Non-compliance with this order will result in sentence to a concentration camp, or death.

Our armed forces and our allies must get enough meat—and they must get it on time

A great food for a man just getting ready to go out to drive a tank or spot a sub or dive a plane is a chunk of good appetizing meat.

The proteins of meat, the B vitamins of meat and the minerals of meat are an important part of his diet.

In meat, in other foods and in everything else—"After the fighters, you come first."

It takes 6½ billion pounds of meat to feed these men and their fighting allies.

Even though we have the biggest bumper "meat crop" in history (24 billion pounds), simple subtraction and division tell plainly why the rest of us must Share the Meat.

There's a lot of meat left—there's enough meat left, if we share. Here's your fair share:

Men, women and children
(over 13 years of age)..... 1½ lbs. per week
Children 6 to 12..... 1½ lbs. per week
Children under 6..... ¾ lb. per week

Many meats are not restricted. These include such fatty and delicious meats as beef, veal, lamb, turkey, etc., as well as poultry and fish.

These may be used to supplement the restricted cuts of beef, veal, pork, lamb and mutton.

How to Make the Most of Meat

1. Choose your meat.—Selecting a cut of meat or your family will get a regular supply of the proteins, B vitamins and minerals which meat provides. Your meat store will help you plan your meat order based on the number of people in your family and the dining distances of each.
2. Use every bit of meat.—Learn how to make delicious steaks out of available cuts, even if you have never cooked them before.
3. Save and use scraps.—Don't throw away any meat scraps.
4. Save the good bits of meat.—Cooking with such foods as potatoes, rice, noodles, dumplings, macaroni, spaghetti and the potato. Make some of your good meat gravy.
5. Use leftovers smartly.—Use in such dishes as soups, casseroles, omelets and flapjacks.
6. Don't use the water.—Use for soups, stews, gravies, etc. The water has vitamin, egg, iron and other values.
7. Use your wife.—is critical part of your organization. A temperature of 47° Fahrenheit is lower a woman. Her body needs of the ground meat. It gets more quickly than food to the plate. If you have an refrigerator, buy meat only shortly before you intend to use it.
