THE STORY OF BENNY THE BUNGLER

TROUBLE BEGINS ON B-BALL

THE STORY BEGINS PARTS NO. 1

Ben looked the world over, waiting for a chance to get out of the office. He was waiting for the weekend, for a vacation, for a holiday, for a day when he could get away from the office and get some rest.

But the office was so busy, and the work was so much to do, that he could not get away. He was waiting for the weekend, for a vacation, for a holiday, for a day when he could get away from the office and get some rest.

The day for the basketball was fast approaching. Ben was so excited that he could not get any sleep. He was waiting for the weekend, for a vacation, for a holiday, for a day when he could get away from the office and get some rest.

Ben was so excited that he could not get any sleep. He was waiting for the weekend, for a vacation, for a holiday, for a day when he could get away from the office and get some rest.

As he looked down at the clock, he saw that it was ten o'clock. He was waiting for the weekend, for a vacation, for a holiday, for a day when he could get away from the office and get some rest.

AGAIN! 8-BALL BUNGLES WAY TO DOGHOUSE

THE STORY BEGINS POSTER NO. 1

Being the bungler was the topic of discussion between the history instructor and the boys. The question that greeted them was, "What would you do if you were a bungler?" "I would be a bungler," said the student. "But the teacher had always been the one to say, 'Benny, you are a bungler!'" "I would be a bungler," said the student. A nation of 45,000,000 people is the population of the United States. The history instructor and the boys were discussing the population of the United States. The question that greeted them was, "What would you do if you were a bungler?"

The teacher looked up and said, "You are a bungler," said the student. "But the teacher had always been the one to say, 'Benny, you are a bungler!'" "I would be a bungler," said the student. "But the teacher had always been the one to say, 'Benny, you are a bungler!'"

All of the boys were looking at the teacher. The teacher looked up and said, "You are a bungler," said the student. "But the teacher had always been the one to say, 'Benny, you are a bungler!'"

DAYS OFF COST LIVES!

Very few of us have a 100 percent attendance record. Most of us make a day now and then. Many of us make work more often—too often.

Sometimes it's our fault and sometimes it isn't.

But in either case work doesn't get done—necessary work.

Your joint labor-management committee wants to cut down absenteeism . . . wants to wipe out the absentee bugs that have been biting us. And your committee needs your help.

Here's our program of attack:

1. Find the root causes of absenteeism.
2. Eradicate them.

On both points we must enlist your support.

The drawings on these two pages illustrate the chief cause of absenteeism in most war plants. Accidents and illness are the biggest causes. Then come housing and transportation troubles; child care and other home problems; shopping and ration board headaches.

There are other causes, too . . . including fatigue, shortage of materials, and other interruptions to production.

These involuntary causes are the most prevalent absentee bugs in war plants. We must find out which of them are biting into production here—and then we must devise ways and means to lark them. All of us, working together.

What about other causes of absenteeism?

We need your help here, too—for, frankly, these other causes are chiefly your problem.

Most absences have contributing and understandable causes. They are involuntary. But some absences are voluntary.

These voluntary days off must be cut down if production is to be pushed up!

Why?

Because there's a war to be won—and won quickly.

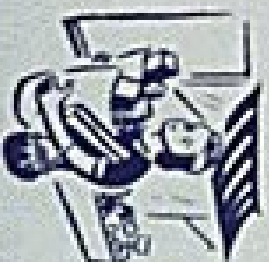

QUICKLY AND COMPLETELY.

GREEN MANURE CROPS

Birthday OF THE MARINE CORPS

On November 10, 1775, a Corps of Marines was created by a resolution of Continental Congress. Since that date many thousand men have borne the name Marine. In memory of them it is fitting that we who are Marines should commemorate the birthday of our Corps by calling to mind the glories of its long and illustrious history.

The record of our Corps is one which will bear comparison with that of the most famous military organizations in the world's history. During the greater part of its existence, the Marine Corps has been in action against the Nation's foes. Since the battle of Trenton, Marines have won foremost honors in war, and in the long eras of tranquility at home generation after generation of Marines have grown gray in war in both hemispheres, and in every corner of the seven seas that our country and its citizens might enjoy peace and security.

In every battle and skirmish since the birth of our Corps, Marines have acquitted themselves with the greatest distinction, winning new honors on each occasion until the term "Marine" has come to signify all that is highest in military efficiency and soldierly virtue.

This high name of distinction and soldierly repute we who are Marines today have received from those who preceded us in the Corps. With it we also received from them the eternal spirit which has animated our Corps from generation to generation and has been the distinguishing mark of the Marines in every age. So long as that spirit continues to flourish Marines will be found equal to every emergency in the future as they have been in the past, and the men of our Nation will regard us as worthy successors to the long line of illustrious men who have served as "Soldiers of the Sea" since the founding of the Corps.
